Kirk Yearlings Average $1,250

Dean Hanover Colt
Brings Top Of $2,300

The seven yearling trotters and pacers from McKinley Kirk's standardbred horse nursery farm just east of Washington C. H. brought an average of $1,250 each at auction before the first annual sale of the Ohio Breeders' Sales Co. at the Delaware Fairground Wednesday was halted by rain. Teller, a bay colt by Dean Hanover, brought the highest price of the Kirk consignment. He was sold for $2,300 to Robert C. Valery of Waverly and J. M. Brown of Piquette. He was the last of the seven from Fayette County to go on the auction block.

Mr. Speaker, a bay colt by Attorney, was the first to be put up for bids. He brought the second highest price when Ralph E. Boyd of Galion bought him for $2,000. Others from the Kirk farm sold were:

Watts Crusader, bc by Calumet Crusader, $900 to Melvin L. Lewis of Oray, Va.

Wonder Maid, bf by Phonograph, $900 to Mrs. Mary K. Miller of West Jefferson.

Charley's Bonny, bf by Bonny-castle, $1,000 to H. H. Cordes of Loveland.

Rubber Stamp, bc by Direct Brewer, $700 to Franklin Safford of Southern Pines, N. C.

Emily Daily, bf by Phonograph, $950, to J. M. Brown of Piquette.

Only four of the 14 youngsters consigned from Dr. H. K. Bailey's Green-Acres Farm near Wilmington had been sold when rain halted the auction.

The sale was to be resumed at 10 A. M. Thursday, the day the cream of the country's three-year-old pacers were to race for gold and glory of the Little Brown Jug stake on the near-by track.

All told, 52 yearlings were listed for this inaugural sale.

Other consignors, with Kirk and Green-Acres Farms, are Fairmeade Farms of Clinton County, Walter J. Michael of Bucyrus and Bonnie Brae Farms of Wellington.

Buyers had come to the sale from all over the country and predictions were made from all sides that top prices would be paid.

The quality of the yearlings and the high standard of the breeding were the attraction for horse lovers and sportsmen-owners-trainers.

A short time before the sale, Kirk disclosed that he had purchased Long Island Belle from Mary Lou O'Conner of Warwick Downs, L. I. Long Island Belle is a three-year-old filly by Fairmeade's great sire Wilmington and Kirk's own grand own matron, Belle Mahone.

Kirk sold Long Island Belle to Miss O'Conner as a yearling at his sale here in November of 1947 for $9,000. The price he gave to get her back was not revealed.

Although Long Island Belle has been doing all right at the races, Kirk said he planned to retire her as a broodmare because of her breeding. He added that he had only five of Belle Mahone's daughters on his farm—and he admitted he is partial to her breeding.

Food Price Spread

world food agency to help move farm surpluses to shortage areas won a favorable reaction today from two senators active in agriculture.

Senator Thye (R-Minn) told a reporter it has "excellent possibilities." Senator Aiken (R-Vt) called it "a good idea." Both cautioned, however, that many details would require careful study.

The plan for a world agency to aid international trade in agricultural commodities was advanced last night by N. E. Dodd, director-general of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO).

Grain Market
CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Wheat futures prices strengthened in late trading today, largely reflecting firm prices in the Kansas City and Minneapolis futures markets.
September contracts of grains and lard move fractionally, since today was the last day for trading in September futures. Any September contracts remaining outstanding after the close of trading today must be settled by delivery of the actual grain.
Oats were strong most of the time, but soybeans weakened after being firm at the start. Local traders sold soybeans on the opening upturn. Corn was weak most of the session because of liquidation on the September contract.

Financial Market
NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Railway stocks steamed in front of a rising market today.
Carrying through yesterday's strong forward thrust ahead the market generally moved up fractions to around a point.
Utility issues grabbed the trading ball for a while in the morning but later railroads splashed all over the ticker tape.
Nickel plate topped the rail group with a rise of nearly 3 points at one time.

Will We Be Affected By Britain's Action?

There are some people here in Washington C. H. and Fayette County who are wondering just how they may be affected indirectly by Britain's devaluation of the pound and the cheapening of their money by a dozen and a half other nations.

It is difficult to tell at this juncture just what may happen, but it is quite possible that English, and other nations' goods which will be offered at a lower price, in comparison with this nation's money, may be bought in greater quantity in this country. What that may mean eventually to American industry cannot safely be prophesied at this time.

It generally has been reported that opinions ranging from definite enthusiasm to complete skepticism have greeted the announcement of the British action.

Predictions have been made by some economists that the move will break the log-jam of international trading, and bring about a swift turn toward sounder economies, not only for Great Britain and other nations using the pound sterling as their monetary standard, but also for all of economically sick Europe. Others contend that the result will be only a temporary boost.

The trite old statement that "time will tell" is particularly applicable in this situation. One special reason is that while the pound has been devalued, it still is tied to an exchange rate fixed by government order. What now happens to the pound in the free market will be a decisive factor in the final outcome of the devaluation move. The new value for the pound is approximately the free market value at the time the change was made. If this value holds or improves on the free market, Britain's exchange troubles may be over; if it declines further, there will in all likelihood be a new crisis at some future time.

Americans In Retreat

Thoughtful observers express wonderment at the apparent ideological inconsistency of the American people. They resort to military measures without stint to up-

Radio Giveaway Originator Moans

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK — (AP) — Radio's "Truth-or-Consequence" Man says it's true he pioneered the giveaway program.

But Ralph Edwards denies he's responsible for the present consequences. "I originated the giveaway program in 1940, alas and alack," he said, "but that wasn't the intent."

"We outfitted a girl like Cinderella on one program — a kind of feminine Horatio Alger touch. That was just one stunt. But the giveaway started from that. "Other programs picked up the technique and started giving gifts. "Our giveaways were for charitable purposes. But others took the guts of our idea — without its heart. It turned out to be a greedy thing without any charity aspects. And now the whole business is on its knees. They are killing themselves."

And Edwards said that, unless the giveaways returned to their original pattern, he would just as soon see the FCC ruling banning them upheld by the federal

Frost Is In The Air Once More

By George E. Sokolsky

Each summer but one for 15 years, I have been coming up to an old farm in the Berkshires in western Massachusetts. When I bought the place, it was in a delightful state of dilapidation. It took us about two years to clear away the heaps of rusting cans and broken glass, the out-houses and more than two centuries of debris.

We found a spring in the woods and leading from it, a square wooden pipe which some enterpriser back in the old days laboriously fashioned.

We moved stone walls to make a lawn and planted flowering shrubs and decorative trees. The front of the house, Connecticut style, was built some time, so they say, between the French and Indian War and the Revolution, for this mountain was where "Gentleman Johnny" Burgoyne operated and not far off out through the forests as he hold the free civilization. They vociferously condemn the philosophies of socialism and communism. And yet they seem to accept with fatalistic calm the deadly growth of government in this country. They work on the average of one week out of four to pay taxes. And definite proposals are under consideration to spend additional incalculable billions in taxes to socialize or to place under government control industries and professions, and reduce American citizens to the status of subjects.

One of the clearest explanations of this apparent inconsistency comes from a member of congress itself. Representative Ben F. Jensen of Iowa points out in an article that the federal planners "have the security and prestige of public office. They can think about methods of influencing Congress and the public all day long, while on the federal payroll. On the other hand, the average citizen, busy attending to his own family, his own business, church, lodge, or other matters that occupy his waking hours, gives very little time to thinking of how to counteract such a trend. He may not even be aware that it exists, or how his own interest is affected by it. That is why a few are able to impose their will upon the many. Yet a count of heads in any typical community would show that the people are on the side of a private economy and not on the side of subtle socialism."

Unquestionably the people in this country are against totalitarian government. They have never knowingly retreated before its threat. It is threatening them now and they are retreating—unknowingly.

Everybody is an expert when it comes to making predictions.

Writers often will do well to avoid the intoxication of adjectives.

Diet and Health Operation Is Best To Avoid Trouble

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

PAIN, disability and unsightly swelling may result from inflammation of either of two bursas in the elbow joint. Bursas are fluid-containing sacs, placed at strategic points around joints to cushion movement and prevent the bones from grinding together.

One of the bursas in the elbow which may give trouble is known as the olecranon bursa. Inflammation of this bursa results from hitting the elbow against a solid object. A soft swelling develops which is unsightly, but not particularly painful.

Comes on Suddenly

When this condition comes on suddenly following injury, a pressure bandage may be put on after the fluid in the sac has been withdrawn, using a hypodermic syringe or needle. This pressure bandage may keep the sac from filling up again. However, it should not be tight enough to cause any discomfort. The fluid may have to be withdrawn again after three to seven days. Usually, with two or three such treatments, the swelling disappears permanently.

A person who continually leans on his elbow or who repeatedly hits it against something while at work may have a chronic inflammation of the bursa. This condition can be cured only by cutting out the bursa.

(Copyright, 1949, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The second bursa which may be affected is known as the radial humeral bursa. Swelling of this bursa has been called "tennis elbow" because it develops so often in tennis players.

This type of bursitis may be treated by having the patient carry his arm in a sling for about four weeks. Hot packs or treatment with diathermy which produces heat deep in the tissues may be helpful. Injection of a local anesthetic into the bursa area has also been used in the treatment.

Sticking a needle into the inflamed bursa and withdrawing the fluid contents may be helpful. In other cases, the wearing of a light plaster cast to keep the area immovable may be of benefit. Now and then operation may be required to bring about a permanent cure.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Reader: What causes black spots in front of the eyes?

Answer: Spots before the eyes are a symptom that appears in several diseases. It may be due to constipation, to a defect in the vision, to high blood pressure, or to migraine.

A thorough examination by a physician is necessary before the exact cause can be determined; then proper treatment can be suggested.

The Nation Today

By STERLING F. GREEN
(For James Marlow)

EDITORS: This is the first of two stories dealing with Britain's financial crisis and how she moved to meet it by devaluing the pound.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—(P)—A country devalues its money because it has to.

In Britain's case, it was as simple as this: pounds would buy so little, compared with dollars, that people didn't want pounds.

They were willing to pay a premium, in pounds, to get hold of dollars.

And as long as Britain insisted that a pound was worth $4.03, the many foreigners who thought otherwise didn't do business with Britain.

Now Britain says a pound is worth $2.80. A pair of British gloves that was marked one pound—or $4.03—can be bought for 20 per cent less.

That is a more realistic price, by the standards of Americans and a lot of other people. Britain therefore should sell more gloves—and more of everything else she makes.

The question arises: why do countries have fixed, "official," rates at all? Why don't they just let currencies find their own level in the financial markets of New York or Paris or Switzerland, and let values fluctuate like wheat prices?

This is why: A businessman who sells to foreigners must know the value of the money he will receive when his cargo reaches port. Otherwise he cannot safely quote a price, figure a profit, or be sure of avoiding loss.

And a businessman who places orders abroad for quantity deliveries over a long period of time must be sure that the foreign currency is stable enough to insure his getting his money's worth.

Therefore, nations set great store by the stability of their currency. Otherwise they must cease to be trading nations. The Italians used to talk bravely of defending the Lira "with 10,000,000 bayonets."

It takes more than bayonets to keep a currency stable.

In Britain, there was a wartime and postwar inflation. Britain was short of goods, her factories flattened. She couldn't export until she could feed and fuel and house her own people. She imported far more than she exported. She couldn't earn enough dollars by selling to America to pay for what she bought.

The "unfavorable balance of trade" became a chronic deficit and finally, a crisis, when the last remaining reserves in dollars ran desperately low. Meantime people in Britain had pounds. They were at work. They wanted goods and foodstuffs and comforts. They would get them from the United States but they had to have dollars to do so.

England clamped restrictions on the number of dollars it would give its people for pounds. As dollars got scarcer, people were willing to put an extra value on them.

The inflation made things worse. The labor government had let wages rise. Its social welfare programs, aside from questions of merit or demerit, imbedded taxes into the costs of production. A pound bought less and less, whether it was held by a Britisher or a foreigner. American prices went up, but not nearly so fast.

There were lots of pounds floating around, but they didn't represent the goods that people wanted. Foreigners selling to Britain soon held more than they needed. They demanded dollars instead.

All the while Britain was making fine recovery—within the British Isles. Production rose. Exports moved 50 per cent ahead of prewar.

But that wasn't enough. Last April the channels of trade became choked with pounds. British exports began to fall. Even with Marshall Plan help, the gap between dollars owed and dollars earned began to widen.

(Tomorrow: Britain's growing financial troubles, and the prospect of recovery through devaluation of the pound.)

Wholesale Food Prices

Show Drop in Week

NEW YORK, Sept. 22—(P)—The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week declined to $5.72 from $5.85 a week ago, a drop of 2.2 per cent.

The index was the lowest since July 19 when it was $5.71 and was 16.1 per cent under a year ago when it was $6.82.

The index represents the total cost at wholesale of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

Good Hope Parish Day Held Wednesday

Good Hope Parish Day was held on Wednesday at the Maple Grove Methodist Church with the members of the WSCS of that church as hostesses to the Good Hope, New Martinsburg and Sugar Grove WSCS members as guests. Sixty-six members of the societies and eleven guests were present for a bountiful basket dinner.

Fall flowers were used as decorations for the occasion, with the color of red, which is the color of the Maple Grove WSCS, predominating.

The afternoon meeting was presided over by Mrs. Marion Dawson, president of the Maple Grove WSCS, and opened with impressive devotionals in charge of Mrs. Homer Kelley. She read Scripture from St. Matthew and the hymn "Frighten The Corner Where You Are," to close the worship period.

Rev. Eugene Frazer, after a short talk, introduced Rev. Lewis B. Rodgers, a former missionary in Burma, who spoke interestingly on the subject "Life And Habits Of The Burmese People." Rev. Rodgers illustrated his talk with mementoes from Burma, among them the costumes worn by the natives.

The remainder of the program consisted of musical numbers and readings which were presented by members of the combined societies. A special feature of the meeting was the presenting of a travelling picture which is an annual event and the society having the most members this year who will possess the picture for the coming year is Good Hope with the largest attendance present. An invitation was extended by the New Martinsburg Church for the 1950 meeting.

The meeting was closed with the hymn "God Be With You Till We Meet Again," and prayer by Rev. Frazer.

Scallops are delicious when coated with seasoned flour and fried in shallow fat in a large iron skillet. To coat a pound of scallops put four tablespoons of flour, a teaspoon of salt, a little freshly-ground pepper, and a dash of paprika into a mixing bowl and

CCC Project Moving Rapidly

Cut-Off at Sligo May Be Finished Soon

Work on the CCC highway cut-off between Sligo and a point west of Clarksville, is progressing rapidly, after months spent in clearing, filling, and cutting through the small hills in the path of the route, to say nothing of bridging streams.

D. R. Smalley and Sons, Inc. have the contract, and are now laying the concrete, and will finish the job before severe weather arrives. However, the completion date is October in next year.

It will require two weeks of working time to complete laying the concrete roadway. The road is being pushed forward at the rate of about 1,400 feet daily.

So far 20,000 feet of 24 foot-wide, eight inch thick roadway has been laid, and about 14,000 remains to be built.

Work of laying concrete was started at the south end of the new cut-off.

On September 10, approximately 63 percent of the work had been completed, and work of completing the berms and other portions of the road, after the cement is laid, is under way.

Grading work is now being finished between Route 380 and the bridge over Todd's Fork, which is also nearing completion.

Joints in the road are filled with rubber compound four days after the concrete is laid, so that they will aid greatly in expansion of the road during hot weather.

Pinsol resin is added to the concrete to increase air space in the concrete to aid in absorbing expansion. It also toughens the concrete and gives it greater resistance to calcium chloride when it is applied to pavement to remove ice.

The old CCC route is being used while the new cut-off is under construction.

Rev. Allan W. Caley, pastor of Grace Church, is on the evangelism committee. Those expecting to attend the conference are asked to make reservations at once with their home pastor.

Livestock Disease Control is Sought

At the regular session of the Concord Farm Bureau council, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Particular attention is wanted for eradicating Bangs disease. The September issue of the Council Guide was used for discussions.

Ben Glover of the Farm Bureau Cooperative Association, was a guest.

Atomic Ship Engine Is Being Developed

SEATTLE, Sept. 22—(P)—The president of Westinghouse Electric Corp. revealed here yesterday that his company is working on an atomic ship propulsion engine, with its use in submarines specifically in mind.

Gwilym A. Price, converting in Seattle with west coast Westinghouse executives, said the research is being conducted in the firm's Pittsburgh, Pa., Atomic-Power Division plant.

"It's a tough engineering problem," he said.

Price predicted that even after atomic reactors suitable for civilian purposes have been devised, they won't be used by industry until economic factors justify the changeover.

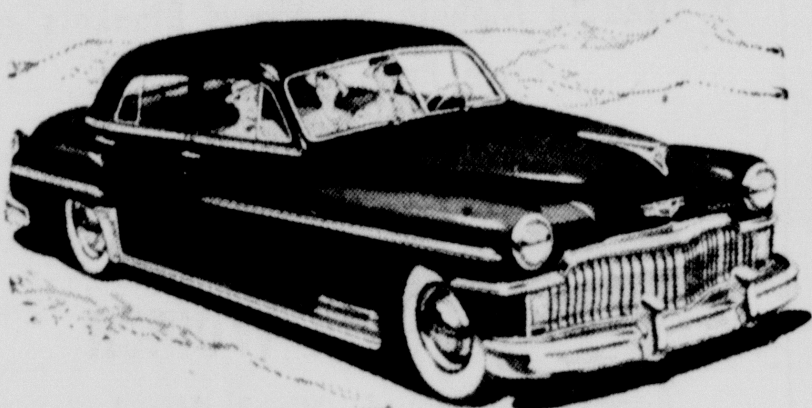

"As long as the present fuels are obtainable and can be employed cheaper than atomic power, they will be used," he said.

Contract Awarded

CLEVELAND, Sept. 22—(P)—A $1,302,817 contract award from the U. S. air force for jet engine starters has been received by Jack & Heintz Industries, Inc., President Frank R. Kohnstamm said yesterday.

At a dinner meeting held in the Washington Hotel dining room, Tuesday evening, members of the Washington Organ Club and representatives of the Cecilian Music Club and music department of the Washington C. They are Wilber Held, who is head of the music department of Ohio State University, and Miss Florence McCracken, soprano, an instructor in voice at Ohio State University.

Held is not only head of the Organ Department of OSU, but is organist and choir director at Trinity Episcopal Church, Columbus, and dean of the Central Ohio Chapter of the Organists' Guild.

His work as an organist is widely known, and the Organ Club officials feel fortunate in being able to bring him to Washington C. H. for a recital, and also in obtaining Miss McCracken to augment the entertainment here.

The Shepherds Club board of directors and Albert G. Cobb, associate county agent are arranging transportation for the group. Anyone interested in going should see those named above.

The program will include many phases of the market lamb and wool growing business.

The morning program, which begins at 10:00 A. M. will be devoted to the research work in progress. D. S. Bell, in charge of sheep and their adaptation to grass-fat lamb production. Also the influence of type and size of sire on rate and economy of gain made by lambs, infant lamb mortality and breeding systems that will reduce the results from using a New Zealand Merino ram for native Merino ewes, producing western-type ewes in Ohio for commercial lamb production, and the results from testing various legumes and grasses for inclusion in sheep pastures.

Following the review of the experiments, Prof. L. K. Bear will relate the results of the experiments to Ohio's sheep industry and discuss their application.

The afternoon program will begin at 1:15 with an address of welcome by Director L. L. Rummell. Immediately following F. M. Shultz, president of the Buckeye Sheep Association will tell of the organization and progress to date in building a state-wide over-all sheep association designed to further the interests of the sheep industry. W. H. Bruner, secretary, Ohio Wool Growers Cooperative Association will discuss "Wool Growing Opportunities for Ohio Farmers," and Prof. C. W. Hammons will handle the subject -- "Marketing Ohio Lambs." The program will close with a discussion by Prof. L. E. Kunkle on the influence of type and size of sire on the yield and quality of the lamb carcass.

An average lamb from each of the six lots on one test will be dressed the previous day in order that those in attendance may see the end-product from using a small-sized, medium-sized, and a large-sized breed type sire, and of raising the lambs strictly on grass as compared with feeding corn to the lambs on grass after weaning.

Everyone interested in any aspect of the sheep business is invited to attend this special sheep day, which is being held under the joint auspices of the station, the agricultural extension service, and the Buckeye Sheep Association.

Three Drivers Out of 30 Are Found Guilty

Others Plead Guilty

Out of more than 30 truck drivers who have been cited in police court during the period since war was opened upon the roaring motor vehicles only three have stood trial, and in each instance they were found guilty in police court and fined $10 and the costs.

Sixteen drivers have entered pleas of guilty, and drew $10 and costs of $8.70 when they were arraigned before Police Court Justice R. H. Sites.

Thirteen other drivers posted $25 bond and forfeited their bonds. Of the three who stood trial, one was Frederick M. Burns, driver of a Carolina Motor Express Co. truck, who insisted that his truck was not making more noise than permitted by law.

He employed Attorney Wm. A. Lovell and trial of the case took place before Justice Sites, where Burns was found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Police testified that the truck driven by Burns was making excessive noise, or considerably more than other trucks of similar size.

Lovell gave notice that he intends to carry the case to the higher courts, insisting that the ordinance is faulty. He was told the bond would be $100 if the case is carried up.

It was indicated that Burns himself is fighting the case, and not the Carolina Motor Express Co.

Since the arresting of drivers who violate the anti-noise ordinance started, truck noise has been reduced fully two-thirds, according to observers, and not one driver has been arrested a second time for too much noise, indicating that mufflers have been placed on trucks, or the drivers are keeping exhausts closed instead of

VA Announces Dividend Rates

55 Cents Per Month
Per $1,000 For Most

After long actual studies, the Veterans Administration has arrived at the rate of payment on the G. I. Insurance dividends.

The rate of veterans up to 41 years of age at time of policy issuance is 55 cents per $1,000 for each month the insurance was in force up to the policy anniversary in 1948.

Thus, the maximum payment possible is $528, based on a $10,000 policy in force for the top limit of 96 months and covering a veteran of 40 or under at the time the policy was taken out. However, the average dividend will be much less. The $2.8 billion special payment will go to nearly 16,000,000 veterans.

Payment will be made at the same rate on both the term and converted NSLI policies, except for periods where the policy lapses.

The first checks will be mailed from Washington, D. C. soon after January 1, 1950.

Those who have not yet applied can still obtain forms at the post-office, veterans' service office or American Legion here. An application is necessary to get a dividend.

To be eligible, the veteran must have taken the policy out before the end of 1947 and kept in force for at least three months.

Here are the rates set up by the VA: vets 40 years old or under at time policy was issued, 85 cents per month $1,000; 41 years old, 52 cents; 42, 49 cents; 43, 46 cents; 44, 43 cents; 45, 40 cents; 46, 37 cents; 47, 34 cents; 48, 31 cents; 49, 28 cents; 50, 25 cents; 51, 24 cents; 52, 23 cents; 53, 22 cents; 54, 21 cents and 55 and over, 20 cents.

Doris Jefferson Back From Study in Europe

What does Europe, reeling back to normalcy after a year of war, look like to an American girl, especially one from Fayette County?

This answer was found, at least in part, by Miss Doris Jefferson, vivacious 25-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jefferson, who has just returned from six weeks of study in Europe.

With little more to satisfy than an insatiable desire to see the Old Country and meet its people, Doris was able to bring back candid impressions of Europe, which are somewhat fresher than one might get from routine press dispatches.

The impressions came from a wealth of sources—from students enrolled at Freiburg University, from professors, from some of the leading universities in Europe and from the people themselves.

People Most Interesting
And Miss Jefferson recorded them all with the cursory interest of student-tourist out to see the sights and meet the people.

One of the most interesting was her impression of the people. "They seem to enjoy their work more and get more satisfaction out of their living than Americans seem to," she pointed out.

"Each one," Miss Jefferson said, "has his or her own little job to do and they train to do it all through their lives."

"Waiters do things with a flourish—delight in giving customers special satisfaction; and tradesmen find satisfaction in doing things with their hands and working for perfection instead of for quantity," she explained.

"Everybody takes a couple of hours off for lunch and nobody rushes around like we do in America," she said.

Want To Come Here

Even though life isn't so hectic in the Old Country, she said many of the younger people there would like to come to the United States.

"They all ask what New York and California are like—apparently they don't know that there's anything in between," she explained.

She said European people get their impressions of America through films which she said grossly misrepresent life in this country.

Swiss Most Serious

The thrifty Swiss people are probably the most serious Miss Jefferson met and the people with which she became most familiar.

She said, as most people here might suspect, the Dutch have made the best recovery from the effects of war while the French have been among the slowest to make a comeback.

Miss Jefferson made a brief tour through Belgium, Holland and France and spent most of her time studying at the University of Freiburg in Switzerland while enrolled for a six-weeks summer course at the university she had an opportunity to visit Italy.

Her impressions of other countries did not come first-hand but through lectures given by professors from most of the leading colleges and universities in Europe and students who were familiar with the Old Country.

The course at Freiburg centered around the theme "Europe Today" and dealt with the philosophies, economic and social conditions and governments of the various European countries.

Sails On Dutch Liner

More than 100 American students sailed with Miss Jefferson from Quebec, Canada June 30 on the Volendam liner for Rotterdam. Another 75 flew over by plane.

Upon arrival she found that she was literally in "One World." She found that there were students enrolled at that university from several foreign countries.

When side trips were made, she said the Americans usually stayed together since they could better enjoy the sights.

One of the highlights of the European visits was an audience with Pope Pius at his summer home near the Vatican City in Italy.

Wherever Miss Jefferson went she found the food as expensive as it is in this country and in many cases even higher.

She said the trip was highly successful since members of the student party were left on their own to rove around in various European cities and find out what makes the people tick.

On one such side trip through Rome Miss Jefferson said she saw Orson Wells and Joan Fontaine walking into a cafe.

Her trip came to an end when she arrived back in Bloomingburg after flying from New York to Columbus.

She was still exhilarated about the whole thing.

But next Monday things will get back to normal focus when she reports back to work at the City National Bank and Trust Company in Columbus.

Deep Freezing Demonstration Is Scheduled

Meeting Is At Farm Bureau Auditorium September 28

"Fayette County homemakers will have an opportunity of attending a series of demonstrations on the preparation of food for freezing Wednesday, September 28," County Agent W. W. Montgomery said Wednesday. Since so much food is being preserved this day and age by freezing, the demonstrations on how to prepare poultry, meats, fruits, and vegetables for freezing will be very timely.

Three specialists in the field of preparing food for both the deep freeze units and zero lockers will be given. This will include not only the preparation of the food such as killing, dressing, and cutting a chicken, or preparation of bread, rolls, pie crusts to go in the freezer units; but also, the packaging and wrapping and different containers to use for freezing purposes.

D. D. Moyer, Poultry Extension Specialist, Ohio State University,

23 Examined At TB X-Ray Clinic Here

Twenty-three persons were examined Tuesday at the X-ray Clinic conducted at the County Board of Health office.

The clinic made possible through the sale of Christmas TB seals, was in charge of Dr. Damon E. Wetterauer, chest specialist and medical director of the Mt. Logan Sanatorium.

Dr. Wetterauer was assisted by Miss Gretchen Darlington and will demonstrate the preparation of poultry for freezing.

I. P. Blausen, Extension Agricultural Engineer, Ohio State University, will discuss the selection of home freezers.

H. B. Bolin, Food Preservation Specialist, U. S. Department of Agriculture, will discuss the preparation of fruits and vegetables and the use of different wrapping papers and containers for food freezing.

The meetings will be held in the Farm Bureau auditorium 319 South Fayette Street, and will be repeated in the afternoon and evening. Invitations are being mailed to over 500 homemakers and to members of home economics classes by the extension service.

Mrs. Ruth Smith, of the Health Department staff.

Results of the elimination will be known in a few days, after the reports are returned by Dr. Wetterauer.

Where "suspect" cases are turned up, the private physician will be notified.

Usually, the treatment needed by a TB victim can be furnished by the family physician, but if more complete care is deemed necessary, this can be assured at the Mt. Logan Sanatorium.

There were 40 persons originally scheduled for the clinic, but no explanation was given as to why so many people failed to show up.

Those who were examined came from three sources.

Some were referred to the clinic by the mobile X-ray unit, others by their family physicians and the remainder were cases that had been in contact with tuberculosis victims.

Be A Friend To The Land

By
Jonathan Forman, M. D.
Vice President of Friends
Of The Land

WE ARE THE FARMER'S PARTNERS.

The attitudes and the understanding of the job that needs to be done across the whole front of conservation seem, according to Edward J. Condon, executive assistant to the president of Sears Roebuck & Company, and president of Friends Of The Land, to fall in four categories:

"First, of course, is the majority of all Americans—in all parts of the country, at all levels of economic and social position—do not appear to be interested. Some lack information some are lethargic and some are just ignorant. Some of these people—many of them—and among them are your good friends and mine—have never been exposed to the facts and the importance of the problem. Friends of the Land are bringing to these people the information which they need. One of these days the most of them will join us in our program."

Another group, far smaller in number, as Mr. Condon points out, are the defeatists who with a little knowledge say "it is too late now." Look at our man-made deserts, fly over our denuded forests and hillsides, walk down the dry beds of our lost rivers. What isn't gone is going. Our children will starve. They only see one side of the canvass. We are doing something about it. Our American farms are to be laid out in conservation plans just as fast as our some two thousand farm planners of the U. S. Soil Conservation can get to them. But we do need more manpower to get the job done on time. That is a job for you, me, and the other voters. There is also a very small group who do not like the way things are being said and so they call us calamity howlers and point with smugness to the achievements of science and say that we do not need to worry. "Everything is all right."

Finally there are Friends of the Land and similar organizations who appraise the situation in an honest and fair manner. We are, as Mr. Condon says, "fearful of what can happen but are not paralyzed by that fear. We are aware of what can be accomplished through intelligent effort—but we know that just dreaming and hoping won't bring it about. We realize that every citizen has a part to play and that everyone must be made to realize what his part is."

All Have Luncheon On
Ruth Lyons' Program

Twenty-seven people from Washington C. H. had lunch on television Tuesday.

Some video set owners here saw the group on Ruth Lyons' noontime "Fifty Club" program over WLW-T, channel 4, from Cincinnati.

Earlier in the day, the radio-geers appeared on the "Morning Matinee" show of Miss Lyons' from 8:30 to 9:30 A. M.

At the luncheon, the wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis of White Road was recognized by Master of Ceremonies Lyons.

A hat was presented to Mrs. Clyde Carman for holding the lucky number and other gifts were passed out to the group.

After each person jotted down a household hint for Miss Lyons, she selected the six she thought outstanding and presented "Fifty Club" charm bracelets to the winners.

Those receiving a bracelet were Karen Stephenson, Mrs. Walter Carman, Mrs. John Cannon and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wolfe.

Three members of the group were on still another program, afterwards.

Mrs. Gerald Stephenson, Lester Stephenson and Miss Frances Morris of New Holland were sketched by an artist before their appearance on the "Burt Farber Show" at 12:30 P. M.

The 15-minute program featured the piano playing of Farber and the guests on the show were each given a copy of the artist's sketch.

Included in the luncheon were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Stephenson and daughters, Nancy and Karen; Mr. and Mrs. Lester Stephenson; Mr. and Mrs. John Cannon; Mrs. Walter Driesback and Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Davis. Also on television were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Pelt; Mrs. Marvin Smith; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wolfe and daughter, Lora Faye; Mrs. Howard Burke; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Carman and daughter, Karen Sue.

Present, too, were Mrs. Clyde Carman; Mrs. Roy Garrison; Mrs. Ralph Garrison; Mrs. Dorothy Benroth; Mrs. Garnet Souther and Mrs. Edna Ruth Jones.

Will Not Affect Employees Here

It was stated at the local office of the State Highway Department, Thursday, that an order issued by State Highway Director T. J. Kauer, ordering employees to stop all private employment, will not affect employees in Fayette County.

Kauer expressed his views in a letter to all bureau chiefs, department heads, and division engineers. The practice of accepting part-time private employment started during the war. During a shortage of civilian engineers.

Kauer said he feels his men can't do their regular work as well if they also work for others. The practice, he said, is "not in the best interests of the ethics of the profession."

He also said he felt employees should not capitalize on their state jobs.

CHAPTER THIRTY

SO FAR it had been easier than Terry had believed possible but the road on which she was set had heights and depths and unexpected twists and turns as terrifying as those leading down from the Pail. She woke each morning to the golden haze of light, a little more anxious than when she had gone to bed. Chris, on the other hand, was content to let things ride and said so. "Stop fretting," he told her. "Take it a day at a time." He added plaintively, "I'm helping, am I not?"

In his way he was, as none of his family had ever seen him more amenable. He paid informal calls on old friends, he went with Jack or Hugo on hours of inspection. He was sometimes gone all day. He told Terry that he was being talked at. "Oh, nothing definite, but it lurks," he said. "I'm permitting it, I'm listening. They know me too well to dream that I'd fall in their arms, crying. Here I am, the prodigal son, kill the fatted pig and let's have a haui! Take me, make something useful of me, set me to timekeeping, promote me to assistant manager, help yourself to my beautiful wife's money, buy a slice of pineapple, another stick of cane, build a couple more mills. Yes, they'd be very suspicious if I showed signs of weakening in a week or two. So I'll let them talk, I'll let them work on me for quite a while, darling, quite a while. Until we get too bored," he added reflectively.

It amused him, Terry thought. He had never before been in this position or, she corrected herself, this apparent position. In a sense it gave him temporarily the upper hand, with laughter in the sleeve as a fitting accompaniment. Yet every day she woke to dread and presently the two weeks had gone and the Russells gave their parties.

On the morning of the Russells' tea and dinner for Terry, Chris remarked, "Henceforward to be known as the Day of the Great Acceptance." He added that everyone had accepted, to the point of standing room only.

"And I," added Terry, "am also accepted, to coin a phrase, or for the time being."

She looked at Chris, who had just got up, and asked, "What if it rains?"

"It won't. Or, if it does, always remember that it's liquid sunshine. Hasn't Aunt Cordelia told you there's no word in Hawaiian for weather? Anyway, it wouldn't dare. I was up at sunrise and out on the lanai. You slept peacefully. Me, my head ached." He yawned.

"I shouldn't go out with the boys. I'm getting too old. While you and Aunt Cordelia were discussing tattling last night and Uncle Hugo was writing in his diary, I was being entertained by my dear cousin and his pals. A sort of belated bachelor dinner—remember?"

"I couldn't forget," she assured

Dodgers and Cardinals Divide Doubleheader

(By the Associated Press)
The Brooklyn Dodgers are still in the thick of the national league pennant fight today thanks to Preacher Roe, a skinny left-hander, with plenty of heart and pitching savvy.
Roe kept the Dodgers' finger in the pie last night when he pitched his mates to a 5-0 triumph over the league-leading St. Louis Cardinals in the night portion of a day-night doubleheader.
The victory was a "Must" as the Cards had scored a 1-0 victory behind lefty Max Lanier in the

17 Are Entered For 'Jug' Stake

Track Is Heavy For Pacing Classic

DELAWARE, Sept. 22—(AP)—Seventeen top three-year-old pacers will race today for the biggest pot of gold for a pacing event in harness racing history. The event is the $59,281.30 Little Brown Jug Grand Circuit race at the Delaware County Fair.
The field is the largest, by six horses, in the history of the race. For that reason, entrants voted to race the fourth annual classic in elimination heats. Nine horses will vie in the first elimination heat and eight in the second. Five horses from each elimination will meet in the third heat.
If the third heat is won by a horse won which neither the first nor second heat, the three winners will meet in a fourth and final heat.
The Little Brown Jug winner, if it captures two of the first three heats, can claim $23,312.53 prize money. Each heat will be run as a race with the winning horse taking $8,742.20, second $4,742.20, third $2,622.65, and fourth and fifth $874.22 each.
In addition, the winner of the race takes 10 percent of the total purse—$5,823.13.
Good Time, a speedy three-year-old from the Good Time Stables of Goshen, N. Y., is the favorite.
Today's lineups for the Little Brown Jug:
First elimination—Pole, Good Time, driver Frank Ervin, Good Time Stables, Goshen, N. Y.; 2—Aralac, driver Clint Lighthill, owner J. R. Loutzenheiser, Greenville, Pa.; 3—Favonian Chief, driver Everett Osborn, owner E. C. Lion Cubs In Daily Workout For Opener

Five full teams covered Wilson Field.
The Cub football teams, now pared down to about a mere 74, ran through their plays simultaneously Wednesday afternoon.
Coach Ron Guinn was a busy man, roaming the entire field, yelling instructions and offering advice where he saw it needed.
"The varsity for our opener at Xenia will be drawn from these two teams," said Guinn, pointing to a couple of dozen of the bigger blue-shirted Cubs.
Guinn set up a defensive and an offensive team and sent them through their plays.
"T" Formation Used
The offense operated from the T-formation and, as a player kept breaking through again and again to nab the ballcarrier, Guinn would just switch him with the man who had failed to block him out.
It is this sort of test in actual playing that is being used to perfect a smooth-working team in the days remaining before the opener on September 29.
The eager youngsters are all from the seventh through the ninth grades and their weight ranges from about a 65 pound ballcarrier to a 150-pound lineman.
Some of the Cubs live as far away as seven miles, yet make the Wilson Field practice every day. Some of them wear sneakers and are using scraps of a full uniform, yet there's not a sign of discouragement.
Action For Most
But almost all of them will perform before the crowds that fill the football grandstands.

Guinn intends to have the smaller members of his squad play in short, intra-squad games between the halves of the regular Cub varsity battles.
Everyone playing in any game will be wearing a complete uniform, Guinn pointed out.
The Cub coach is taking every precaution to make the gridiron game safe for the youngsters.
Learning the fundamentals of football now, the correct way to tackle, block and fall when being tackled, will save many a youngster from serious injury later on.
Guinn's helpers are Jim Hoffman and Claude Smith, student managers.

Fire Protection Plan Gains New Impetus Here

Township and Town Officials to Meet With City Council

Rural fire protection for Fayette County and adjoining townships gained new impetus Wednesday night when it was decided that township and town officials would be invited to meet with members of the Washington C. H. city council.

The next meeting of the city council is scheduled for 7:30 P. M., September 23.

At this time representatives from each township in Fayette County with town officials from Jeffersonville, Bloomington, Mt. Sterling, New Holland, Greenfield and Leesburg will discuss mutual benefits under a fire protection plan.

The meeting with members of the Washington C. H. city council was discussed at a get-together of the Fayette County Township Trustees Association with two representatives of the county's rural fire protection committee.

The committee representatives, Walter Sollars and Ralph Penn, chairman and secretary respectively, reported excellent progress in getting promises of support from various townships.

They told the township trustees that every township in the county together with a few on the county's fringes have indicated a willingness to participate in the program.

Actually the area which will be covered under the rural fire protection plan will depend on voters in townships who must vote in November to participate in the fire protection plan.

The committee reported levies will be voted on in six townships in Fayette County—Jasper, Wayne, Perry, Green, Concord and Madison.

Other towns and townships have other means at their disposal for meeting their share of the cost of participation in such a program of mutual fire protection.

City Manager Winston W. Hill was invited to attend the meeting of the trustees and fire protection committee members, held at Anderson's Drive In.

Unable to attend because of illness, Hill assured the fire protection committee that he was of the opinion that the Washington C. H. city council would cooperate in any way consistent with the city's ability to take part in the program.

Coonhound Trials Set Near Highland

A $500 purse and six trophies will be awarded at the Coonhound Field Trial to be held September 24 and 25 near Highland.

At 6 P. M. Saturday, the Methodist Church Ladies will give a fish fry, the Fairfield H. S. Band will play at 7 P. M. and a coonhound bench show will be held at 8 P. M. There is no admission charge.

A pet dog show for children is scheduled for 2 P. M. Sunday, with $1 prizes in ten classes.

New Stadium To Be Opened To Crowd Friday

Volunteer Workers Finish Wooden Seats Day Before Game

Gardner Park Stadium, completed Thursday afternoon, will accommodate its first football crowd Friday night, when the WHS Blue Lions meet Jackson in their home opener.

This was announced today by Arthur Wohlers, principal of WHS. Wohlers said no official dedication program for the new stadium is planned, although Stephen Brown, superintendent of schools, will make a few remarks about the structure.

Several good seats remain in the stadium which can either be purchased before game time at the high school principal's office or at a gate at Gardner Park Friday night. The price is $10—of which $4 is a donation.

Work installing wooden seats and stenciling them with numbers was completed Thursday afternoon. School officials pitched in to insure that stadium ticket holders wouldn't be disappointed Friday night.

Volunteer Labor Helps

Dana Hyer, clerk-purchasing agent; Gordon Ryder, vocational agriculture instructor and Supt. Brown worked several nights to complete the wooden seats.

The concrete and steel work for the stadium was handled by Wilson Hardware concern, which held the contract for the stadium job.

The contractors completed their work almost a week ago. Cost of the stadium was approximately $7,000.

Money raised from $4 donations for each stadium seat will finance the cost of the new structure.

General admission tickets went on sale at Patton's bookstore early Thursday for 75 cents each. They will also be sold at the gate. General admission tickets for youngsters from grades one through six will go for 15 cents apiece.

Wohlers said the gates to Gardner Field will open at 6:30 P. M. Friday.

Two Autos Collide

When a car driven by Ira Bruce, Jeffersonville R. 1 and another driven by Floyd Wiseman, also of Jeffersonville R. 1, collided on the narrow Hidy Road off the Reid Road in northern Fayette County Wednesday night, both cars were damaged extensively but no one was hurt.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Foster investigated the accident.
